I've been receiving some of the letters sent back and forth between Blue Tee and Xtra on the cost share issue. As it stands now, Xtra has offered to pay 2 percent of the RI/FS cost, and Blue Tee has suggested 38 percent. I believe you were copied on a letter of Oct. 12 from Richard Greenberg, Blue Tee's counsel, to Michael Steinberg, Xtra's lawyer, which sets out Blue Tee's offer. It doesn't look too promising to me, based on the tone of the letters, but Steinberg is famously combative, so that may not be really telling. I will give Richard Greenberg a call and try to get a more definitive understanding of where this is going...
